Air of Romance Hangs About
Dr. Browning's Departure for Paris, France.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Dec. 18.—Was it merely the attractions of Europe that caused Dr. O. Emmet Browning to suddenly close his dental offices here and purchase a ticket for Paris, or was it another "attraction," one with an invisible, irresistible, radiating influence, that recently sent the doctor on a bee-line from the junction city to the gay capital of France?

This is a question that is being asked by acquaintances of the dentist and close friends, in answer, smile merely a knowing smile.
It is recalled by friends of the doctor that not so long ago there lived in Ogden a beautiful little singer, whose exceptional talents soon carried her to the old world art centers and have now placed her among the bright stars of the musical firmament in that mecca of musicians—Gay Paree.
This singer is Miss Maggie Toot who is reported to be drawing checks with several figures on them for every song she sings. And it is also recalled that ere her fame had spread to European capitals the doctor was the leading man in a little opera of heart's song by two—two of them.
It is whispered that one Dr. Cupid has gotten busy with his wireless system and that the real reason for the doctor's departure was "a message by wireless."
Friends of the two are awaiting a cablegram to settle the question.

VAGRANT MUST FACE COURT SECOND TIME

Undesirable Character Ordered to Leave Ogden Is Again in Toils of the Authorities.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Dec. 18.—For the second time within a week, Andrew Miller was taken into custody by the police and booked as a vagrant. His arrest today was caused by improper conduct on Twenty-second street, which attracted Jailer Hagbert Anderson.
Miller, who is an elderly man, was arrested a few days ago upon the complaint of the teachers of Grant grammar school, who declared that his conduct was demoralizing to the children.
When the Miller case came up before Judge Murphy in the municipal court, irrefutable testimony was introduced to show that his presence in town was undesirable. He was accordingly ordered to leave Ogden immediately, but in the last few days has successfully eluded the vigilance of the police.

SHERIFF IS MADE VICTIM OF 'JOKE'

Meeting Held in Cheyenne at Which Producers' Association Is Organized.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)

Ogden, Dec. 18.—After spending several hours early this morning vainly searching the length and breadth of North Ogden for a supposed victim of foul play who was reported to be lying in a roadway dying from his injuries and exposure to the cold, Sheriff Harlow Wilson and two deputies discovered that they had been made the victims of a practical joke when they received his inspiration from the cup that cheers.

It was shortly after midnight that the sheriff received a telephone call informing him that a man who had evidently been beaten almost to death, was freezing to death in a ditch along the road north of Five Points.
The sheriff and his deputies hastened to the scene in an automobile and secured the whole section of the town without discovering the supposed victim. Almost frozen, the man was taken to the house of John Kay and learned that Edward Fitzsimmons, a well-known law, had come to the house in an intoxicated condition and had been denied admittance. He then disappeared up the road. Later developments proved that Fitzsimmons had phoned the sensational story to the sheriff. Fitzsimmons has not been located by the officers.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Brigham City, Dec. 18.—The baby boy, son of the late Editor Victor E. Madson of the Box Elder News, Friday morning died this morning at 3:15 o'clock. Burial of the infant will take place in the city cemetery Monday forenoon, after brief services at the residence.

"In six months I could show a production of 10,000 barrels of oil a day, if we had the money to develop it. There are no finer wells anywhere than ours in Wyoming, but they are capped until we have a good market for our surplus production. Colonel Power cannot build his pipe line to Omaha any too soon to suit me."
It is expected federal and state legislation and other important achievements will result from the convention, which is to be held at Cheyenne, Wyo., and promises to bring about tremendous industrial development for Wyoming, Nebraska and Colorado.

It was with this view in mind that the platform of the Wyoming Oil Producers' association was adopted at the annual meeting of the association, which was held at Cheyenne, Wyo., last night. Governor Bryant B. Brooks was elected president of the association for 1911, and Colonel Power vice president.

IRRIGATION COMPANY FILES ITS ARTICLES

Capitalization Is Four Hundred Thousand Dollars and Shares Are Ten Dollars Each.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Logan, Dec. 18.—The Trenton Irrigation company, which was recently organized to take over the present West Cache Irrigation company, filed its articles of incorporation yesterday with County Clerk James.

The capitalization is $400,000, made up of 40,000 shares of the par value of $10 per share. E. H. Hendrickson is named as the president; E. H. Miles, Jr., of Sanfield, and George Q. Adams of this city, as first and second vice presidents, respectively. A board of seventeen directors will conduct the affairs of the company, which shall have power to levy an assessment not to exceed twelve per cent per annum unless special permission is granted of the stockholders holding a majority of stock.
On this assessment feature much depended, as it was feared that in the old company that such bitter contentions arose. Assessments have run up to eighteen per cent, and the stockholders who now form the new company seriously objected to paying the assessments.
One per cent of the capitalization is paid in cash, and 4,357.98 shares of the old West Cache company are turned in with the cash as part of the paid-up capital stock.

PROVING OLD S NEARLY FINISHED

Mayor Ray of Provo and Members of Council Inspect
New Road.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)

Provo, Dec. 18.—Mayor N. H. Ray and some of the members of the city council, and Dr. F. W. Taylor and other members of the Provo-Olmsted boulevard committee were taken over the boulevard from Provo to Olmsted yesterday afternoon by W. L. Biersach of the Telluride Power company in the company's new motor bus, for the purpose of looking over the road.
The new drive is now practically finished for four miles south from Olmsted, and work is being done on the two miles nearest the city. The completed part is an excellent piece of road, and passing, as it does, through the Pleasant View orchard district, with a fine view of the valley and lake, and with Provo for one terminus, and Olmsted for the other, it cannot fail to become a popular drive for citizens and tourists.

The road will cost about $30,000 when completed. About $22,000 has already been spent on it. The greater part has been by subscription from public-spirited citizens, by far the largest individual contributor being President L. S. Sudd of the Telluride Power company, who has probably loaned an investment of about $15,000 in this piece of work.

The county has also contributed a large sum. Provo City will finish the drive from the northern city limits through the city to Sixth South street, which will give a smooth level drive from the depot to the mouth of Provo canyon.

The boulevard committee has worked energetically on the project and is making a last strong effort to raise a few thousand dollars to complete the undertaking.

It will be ready for the pleasure and convenience of citizens and visitors early next spring.

POLITICAL STORM NOT YET SPENT

Suit Filed Contesting Election of Attorney and Treasurer of Juab County.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Nephi, Dec. 18.—Out of the political storm that has been brewing here since the recent county elections comes the filing of a suit contesting the right of office of T. L. Foote, county attorney-elect, and A. R. Paxman, county treasurer-elect. Both were elected on the Republican ticket.

The suit was filed by George A. Allen, Democratic chairman of the Nephi precinct, who charges fraud and failure to comply with election laws.

Foote and Paxman won their places only after a canvass had been made. They then came out ahead by a plurality of sixteen and fifteen votes, respectively. They won over B. N. C. Stott and T. H. G. Parkes, Democrats.

The suit is based on the fact that the judges did not take oath of office, and that they failed to recognize the results of the election.

At Levan precinct it is charged that the judges did not take oath of office, and that they failed to recognize the results of the election.

The close election has caused considerable interest here and the outcome of Allen's fight is awaited with keen anticipation.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Green River, Utah, Dec. 18.—The opening of the state bridge across the Green river here practically completes the last link of a great interstate and transcontinental auto highway.

The road through Colorado now gives promise of being completed by legislative action.

A fairly good highway already exists as far as the Utah-Colo. line, and the state bridge across the Green river here practically completes the last link of a great interstate and transcontinental auto highway.

The road through Colorado now gives promise of being completed by legislative action.

From there the road will follow the line of the Salt Lake Route to the coast.

Traversing the Grand valley, Green River valley, Cache valley and over the ranges of the Wasatch mountains, this road passes through the richest fruit farming districts in the west and some of the most beautiful mountain scenery in the world. It will bring thousands of auto parties from the east, and besides the immediate benefit from such visitors it will excite the interest of investors in Utah enterprises.

NATHAN TANNER ANSWERS CALL

One of Utah's Earliest Pioneers and Maker of History Dies at Granger.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)

Nathan Tanner, for years the last surviving member of the famous Zion's Camp, historic in the early days of the Mormon church, died at 10:40 o'clock Saturday night at the home of his son, Stature Tanner, at Granger, Salt Lake county. He was in his ninety-fifth year. Until a few weeks ago his health had been comparatively good. General debility was one of the first signs of his decline.

Mr. Tanner was born in Greenwich, Washington county, New York, May 14, 1815. He was baptized into the Mormon church, September 19, 1821, and met Joseph Smith, the prophet, for the first time at Kirland, Ohio, in 1833. In 1834 he became a member of the Zion's Camp, at the age of nineteen. His life, therefore, covers, it is believed, a longer period contemporaneous with the church history than any other man. After Zion's Camp was disbanded, Mr. Tanner was one of the members chosen in the organization of the first ward of the Mormon church.

Nathan Tanner was the son of John Tanner, whose descendants, it is said, are the most numerous of any man that ever joined the Mormon church. Nathan Tanner's career began with the earliest period of exciting life in the story of Mormonism.

Robbed of Property.
With David Patten and others he defended his people against the attacks made in Missouri and finally, at the surrender of Fort West, decided over his property to the mobs at the point of the bayonet after receiving brutal treatment at their hands. He was with the Saints in their exodus from Missouri to Illinois. He witnessed the event which was the story of Nauvoo and was finally chosen by President Joseph Smith as one of the explorers to accompany the prophet to the Rocky mountains.

Heroic Character.
In the exodus from Nauvoo he joined the Saints and became a conspicuous figure among the pioneers of the Rocky mountain region. His expert knowledge of horses and his ability to manage them skillfully caused a demand for his services at the period in the Mormon history when fearless men were needed to lead a large measure of the heroism which characterized the explorers and pioneers. In 1845, while crossing the plains, he rescued the horses stolen by the Indians by swimming the Platte river during the early spring at a point where it was mile wide.

Upon his arrival in Utah, Nathan Tanner acted a generous part in providing for the emigration of the Saints from the Missouri river. In 1849 he joined the exploring party of Parley P. Pratt into southern Utah. Later in 1852 he was one of the pioneers called to Asia and the islands of the sea. The overland trip was made by way of Los Angeles, California, and set sail for San Francisco and from the latter port took ocean passage to the Sandwich Islands, where he remained for a year and a half.

Q. Cannon, and later became one of the presidents of that mission. On his return to Utah he was again called to the front. Later he became a member of the escort of Governor Cummings from Camp Scott to Salt Lake City.

Indian Fighter.
During the days of overland travel between Salt Lake and Los Angeles, Mr. Tanner had many thrilling experiences with the Indians. Bringing horses from southern California to Utah was the life of the pioneer. It was a man whose life was often in jeopardy as well as a soldier; hence it was that Nathan Tanner became conspicuous in the early history of Utah. He was a farmer and performed his share in the reclamation of the soil. It was his distinction of being the first man to break soil in the construction of the irrigation canals from Big and Little Cottonwood canyons.

Being a great lover of horses, Mr. Tanner took pride in driving the best in the community in which he lived. His handsome teams were frequently subjects of comment which extended beyond Salt Lake. Among associates he was most congenial and an excellent conversationalist. He was regarded as unusually generous.

Funeral Tuesday.
At the time of his death Mr. Tanner had 250 direct descendants, representing five generations. They resided throughout the Intermountain district and in Canada. They are all reputed to be prosperous. A few years ago Mr. Tanner's sister, Maria Lyman, mother of President F. M. Lyman, died in Salt Lake. His brother, John Tanner, died in Big Cottonwood when he was upward of eighty years of age.

Funeral services for Mr. Tanner will be held at the Granite stake tabernacle at 12 o'clock Tuesday noon. A majority of the prominent members of the stake are planning to attend the services.

BAD BLUNDER IN FIRE DEPARTMENT

Fifteen Hundred Feet of Hose Purchased, but Cannot Be Used.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)

With 1,500 feet of new hose on its hands, which is one-half inch larger than standard and cannot be used in connection with the present gauge of street hydrants, the fire department is again flummoxed, and, again, by its own blunder.

The hose, which is too large and cannot be coupled with standard hose or other standard fire apparatus, was recently ordered by the city council from the Standard Hose & Co. at Akron, Ohio. The measurements were furnished by officials of the fire department. In that the hose is larger than the standard, it is doubtful if the manufacturers will take it back in exchange for standard hose. It is said.

Costly Blunder.
Thirty lengths of the hose, each measuring 50 feet, have just arrived at fire headquarters. When preparations were being made to put the hose into service, it was discovered that it was larger than standard hose, and consequently as useless to the fire department as garden hose. The hose cost the city $1,500. It required several weeks to order the supply and have it shipped to Salt Lake. The fire department is now in a predicament, and the city is again flummoxed.

Fire Chief W. H. Glore admitted yesterday that the hose is one-half inch larger than standard hose. He said that the hose was ordered by the city council from the Standard Hose & Co. at Akron, Ohio. The measurements were furnished by officials of the fire department. In that the hose is larger than the standard, it is doubtful if the manufacturers will take it back in exchange for standard hose. It is said.

When the last lot of hose was ordered by the fire department it resulted in a lively debate among members of the city council.
